Aloha President Ike In Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — A weary President Eisenhower arrived in Honolulu Monday after a 5,200 mile flight from Korea to a rousing, warm welcome from residents of the 50th state.

President's Trip Held A Success

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Eisenhower ended his Far Eastern tour on a high note and headed home Monday.

The welcome of nearly three million Asians — Filipinos, Nationalist Chinese, Okinawans and Koreans — had offset to some extent the cancellation, because of leftist rioting, of a projected visit to Japan.

On balance, Eisenhower's trip was a success, though he had to skip the main stop, Tokyo. That scored a point for the Communists.

The Reds picked up another point on American-run Okinawa. There they were able to mobilize 1,500 chanting, snake-dancing demonstrators who marred with shouts of "go home" the otherwise friendly reception of the President by 150,000 Okinawans.

Wild Welcome
Eisenhower made points in South Korea and the Philippines. He got a wildly exuberant welcome in both places.

In South Korea, the enthusiasm for the U. S. President appeared to be a continuation of the good feeling toward Americans stemming from what South Koreans consider decisive U. S. help in getting rid of President Syngman Rhee in the April revolution.

In the Philippines, the welcome solidified traditional American ties with that young republic, which was freed by the United States 14 years ago.

Eisenhower was also warmly received in Formosa, island bastion of Chiang Kai-shek. But that doesn't count much in Asia.

In most Far Eastern countries — including Japan — Chiang is considered an American idiosyncrasy, tolerated for friendship's sake.

Chinese Barrage
Nevertheless, Eisenhower's Formosa visit drew the most violent reaction of all from the Communist sphere. For his arrival and departure from Formosa, Red China's gunners loosed the heaviest barrages of their long war against Nationalist-held Quemoy.

A main aim of the tour as originally planned seemed to be to give a boost to Japan's conservative government, headed by Premier Nobusuke Kishi. But the prospects were never bright.

Communists, Socialists and nationalists allied themselves in giant demonstrations against Eisenhower's visit. Kishi himself and the new U. S.-Japan security treaty.

The Reds made it clear in that more of the same was in store for the President if he came. The police couldn't cope with the mobs.

Finally Kishi asked Eisenhower not to come.

Some sort of order has since been restored in the Japanese capital, but there are so many forces pulling at Kishi that it seems unlikely he can long survive.

Ending his eight-day Far Eastern tour, Eisenhower found 3,000 shirt-sleeved men and women in gay Hawaiian dress to greet him. Tens of thousands lined his motorcade route into downtown Honolulu to cheer Eisenhower, still smiling despite the rigors of his travels.

His vacation home in this semi-tropical Pacific island resort will be the secluded Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station, where he plans to rest several days.

Japanese-Americans turned out at the airport and along the route to hail Eisenhower.

"Aloha Ike," "Welcome Ike," said banners held aloft by young Japanese boys and girls, proclaiming "The United Japan Society."

Eisenhower canceled a visit to Japan, the scheduled high point of his 23,000-mile Asian swing, because of anti-American riots by fanatic leftwing Tokyo students.

Eisenhower came to sun-drenched Hawaii after a 10-hour flight from Seoul, where hundreds of thousands of applauding, flag-waving Koreans gave him an enthusiastic farewell as he wound up his 24 hour goodwill stay.

Eisenhower was welcomed by Gov. William F. Quinn and a corps of leading state and military dignitaries.

Mrs. Quinn placed a plump, bright red carnation lei around the President's shoulders. But she omitted the traditional kiss of welcome that usually goes along with the lei.

The President and the governor reviewed an honor guard of the armed services while thousands screamed Aloha.

Eisenhower told the airport crowd after mounting a red-topped platform:

"It is a signal privilege that I was to land here on this beautiful island. For me, it is the first time since it became a state."

"This has been in the making a long time."

The President gave his "warmest and affectionate greetings to Hawaii, where we have a true sample of men living together."

He said "men of every race, color and creed live here together in mutual satisfaction." He mentioned the establishment of the East-West Cultural Center in Hawaii, aimed at bringing together the people of Asia and the West.

Quinn told the President Hawaii is deeply honored that he chose to come to Hawaii.

"We owe you a great amount of gratitude for the support of our aspirations for statehood," he said.

The governor said the Hawaiian people were deeply grateful for the President's efforts towards making peace.

A Marine band played "Ruffles and Flourishes." "Hail to the Chief" and gave an island touch with "Blue Hawaii."

Patterson Regains Championship

By Curt Prins
Daily Record Sports Editor
NEW YORK CITY — Floyd Patterson, the fighter they said didn't have the big punch, became the first man in history to regain the heavyweight championship of the world after losing it, by knocking out Ingemar Johansson in 151 of the fifth round at the Polo Grounds last night.

Floyd Patterson

Only 51 weeks ago in Yankee Stadium, less than a looping left hand from here, Johansson stunned the boxing world by knocking out Patterson in the third round.

But Patterson did the stunning here last night. He never let the Swedish smasher get started. He crowded the champ and kept a constant left jab in his face.

Patterson charged at Ingo to open the fifth round with a left hook to the stomach, starting the knockout proceedings. Floyd backed away and threw a looping left hand out of centerfield that caught Johansson on the chin. The champion fell backward, more stunned than hurt. A quick five count by Referee Arthur Mercant and Ingo was back on his feet.

Patterson pulled into Johansson looking for the kill. Two left hands to the stomach had Johansson pulling his left leg up in a desperate attempt to protect himself.

Then Patterson saw the opening. He unloaded two vicious left hands and Johansson dropped like a cold Swedish meatball.

Patterson moved into a neutral corner, glanced back at the falling champion only once, when the count reached five, then threw his hands into the air and started shaking hands with ringsiders.

A crowd of some 40,000 pro-Patterson spectators roared.

But Ingo was still out. Ten minutes later, with the ring crowded with well-wishers, the ex-champ was still on his back.

Few Rights
Patterson took a cue for the fight from Ingo's mystery right-hand of last year. The 25-year-old former Olympic tittler threw fewer than a half a dozen right hands in the brief encounter.

Ingo, who also appeared—but in a less spectacular role, looked like anything but a champion last night. At times, he even looked clumsy and confused by the new champ's stabbing left.

Patterson used a modified version of his peak-aboo style through the early rounds of the fight. In the second round, Patterson carried his hands under his chin. And it was in that round that Johansson landed his only solid blow of the fight, a right hand to Patterson's head.

For a brief second, it appeared that Patterson might be heading for another Yankee Stadium finish. But the Rockville Centre, L. I., fighter failed to give Ingo a follow-up shot.

Patterson backed away for the most of the round, countering now and then with left jabs.

Unafraid Of Champ
From the beginning, it was evident that Patterson was not afraid of the Swedish terror, who beat him so unmercifully last year.

In every exchange it was Johansson who backed away, with Patterson not letting him get set for a counter.

Late in the first round, Patterson opened a small cut above Johansson's left eye that caused some swelling as the fight moved on.

Most ringside observers had Patterson well ahead on both rounds and points when the end came suddenly.

Making a mockery of the old ring legend that says they never come back, Patterson flattened the previously unbeaten Swede with a left hook to the jaw. It was some time before Johansson regained his senses and was able to sit on a stool near his corner. He finally rose and left the ring wobbly under his own power.

The 25-year-old Patterson, floored seven times last June 26 when he lost his title in a shocking third round upset, shook off a Johansson "boomer and lightning right" in the second and went on to floor Ingemar twice in the savage fifth round attack.

Confair Asks $500 Million For Highways

HARRISBURG (AP) — Sen. Z. H. Confair (R-Lycoming), proposed Monday that the Commonwealth borrow 500 million dollars to speed construction of the federal interstate highway system.

Confair introduced a bill to authorize the state Highway and Bridge Authority to borrow the money.

The money would be used to speed construction on the Shortway, the Anthracite Expressway, the Erie-Pittsburgh Freeway, the Delaware Expressway, and other interstate projects.

Confair, who is president of the Keystone Shortway Assn., said the proposal would allow the state to build its section of the interstate system "very quickly instead of waiting for the years to come."

The bill was sponsored also by Sens. Paul L. Wagner (R-Schuylkill), George B. Stevenson (R-Clinton), and Harold Flack (R-Luzerne).

Under present State Highways Department planning, the Shortway is scheduled to be completed by 1970 or 1972. Advocates of the 291-mile Stroudsburg - Sharon route are urging that it be finished by 1964 to handle the heavy traffic which the World's Fair will attract to New York.

Flood Control Ceremony

Gov. Lawrence Invited Here

GOV. DAVID L. Lawrence may attend ground-breaking ceremonies for the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg flood control project here on July 5, it was announced yesterday.

A spokesman for the Dept. of Forests and Waters in Harrisburg said an effort is being made to arrange the governor's schedule so that he will be able to attend.

Maurice K. Goddard, forests and waters secretary, will definitely be here for the program, the spokesman said.

The time and place of the program will be announced by The Daily Record after consultations among state, county and local officials.

Charles R. Bensinger, Stroudsburg attorney and president of the Water Resources Assn. of the Delaware River Basin, will act as master of ceremonies.

Elmhurst Contracting Co. of Corona, N. Y., contractor on the project, will also be represented at the program.

Elmhurst Contracting Co. of Corona, N. Y., contractor on the project, will also be represented at the program.

The $1,473,593 project on Brodheads, McMichaels and Sambo Creeks, is the largest local flood protection project ever undertaken by the Commonwealth.

It is one of seven major permanent flood protection projects for Northeastern Pennsylvania to be built as a result of the 1955 floods.

The final passage vote was 84-0.

The Senate added the revenue to the measure by adopting three so-called loophole-closing amendments although it rejected several others.

Travel, Phone Tax
It also decisively defeated recommendations of its finance committee that 750 million dollars in revenues be cut from the bill by ending on July 1 the 10 percent federal tax on local telephones, telegrams and travel.

The vote on the communications and passenger fare taxes was a victory for President Eisenhower who had urged they be extended. The House went along with this in passing the bill.

The measure also provides for an eight billion dollar increase in the 285 billion dollar permanent national debt ceiling in the year ahead. This would replace a 10 billion temporary boost expiring June 30.

The tax rates which would be extended for a year by the bill include the 52 percent corporation income levy, which otherwise would drop to 47 percent; and excises on liquor, wine, beer, cigarettes, autos, auto parts and accessories, local telephone service, and train, bus and airline fares.

Swindle Sheet
Earlier, the Senate had adopted a "swindle sheet" amendment intended to outlaw unjustified tax deductions of entertainment expenses under the guise of business costs.

By a 45-39 vote, it wrote into a tax extension bill an amendment which Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) said would bring in about 250 million dollars a year in extra revenue.

This action came on top of earlier Senate votes to keep alive 752 million dollars a year in telephone-telegram and travel taxes, and to close what critics called tax loopholes worth almost another billion dollars in revenue.

1. Such items as yacht trips, night club entertainment of business prospects, trips to the races, and to hunting lodges.

2. Gifts valued at more than $10.

3. Club dues.

The amendment would permit food and drink expense deductions, Clark emphasized, commenting:

"You can wine 'em and dine 'em to your heart's content."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah), opposing the amendment for the administration, said the Treasury now is seeking to get at such abuses by tougher enforcement.

The vote came after more than an hour of debate.

Earlier, a separate report by the committee's Republican minority was rejected on straight party lines, 102-80. The Republicans accused Democrats on the committee of trying to whitewash Stewart's charges that Blanc has been negligent in office.

Democrats said the charges were without "sound, solid basis."

The House also sent to the judiciary committee a Senate-passed resolution calling for a legislative investigation of alleged vote frauds in Philadelphia, a Democratic stronghold.

Two Named To County Housing Unit

WEALTHY J. Kortz and Willard Quick, both of Stroudsburg, were appointed to the Monroe County Housing Authority Board by the County Commissioners at their meeting yesterday.

Other action taken by the Commissioners was a trip to the County Home where a complete survey was taken of maintenance work to be done.

A discussion on medical procedure to be followed in Monroe County Home resulted in every person in the home having his or her own medical record kept on file.

This is being done to make it much easier for the doctor and nurses in caring for the people housed there.

The commissioners also granted $500 to Co. "A," First Battle Group, 109th Infantry, Pennsylvania National Guard. This is included in the budget and granted each year.

Invitations were received by the commissioners to attend the "Pageant of Progress" in Cameron County during July. No immediate action was taken.

Also reported to the commissioners was a notice that all the tax duplicates have been completed and will be in the mail by the end of June.

Summer Officially Arrives

WHILE you were sleeping, the Summer Solstice or just plain Summer came into being.

Summer officially arrived on the scene at 4:43 a.m. E.S.T. (5:43 a. m. Daylight Time) this morning.

What does it all mean? It means that the days for the duration of the season will now be longer than the nights. The angle of inclination of the sun rays cause a more widespread distribution of light, hence causing more daytime light.

Days and nights are the most unequal in length because the sun is at a maximum distance from the equator causing the solstices.

4:32 A. M.
Of Sol made its appearance today at 4:32 a.m. E.S.T. and will fade at 7:32 p.m. E.S.T. While not considering Daylight Saving Time, this averages out to a 15-hours of daylight. Naturally, with the addition of Daylight Saving, an even longer day results.

From today on however, the sun will gradually increase (by a matter of minutes) the time it arises and then will gradually diminish in time of setting.

If you haven't already guessed, this is the longest day of the year.

Last Public Hearing On Stroud Code

THE LAST in a series of public hearings at which time the proposed zoning ordinance and building code for Stroud Township will be reviewed, as recently revised, is scheduled for Wednesday, June 29, at 7:30 p. m., in the Court House.

The township supervisors and members of the township planning commission, will conduct the hearing. They will meet jointly and answer questions propounded to them by residents and property owners of the township.

H. G. Sanborn Jr., chairman of the planning commission, said the hearing is the fourth public meeting called since the initial draft of the zoning ordinance.

As a result of questions and problems presented at the previous hearings, certain modifications have been made in the zoning proposals and these changes will be outlined at next week's hearing, Sanborn said.

Chief modification, he said, is in the provision describing lot areas and widths. In residential area one, for example, the previous minimum size was five acres per residential unit. This has been reduced to three acres. Similarly, the minimum under residential area two was lowered from three to two acres.

Sanborn said other changes have been proposed with the thought of obtaining the greatest and best use of land and of meeting the unusual situations that are expected to develop as the township grows.

Memory is a priceless possession. Preserve it permanently—visibly—beautifully in stone.

Chamber Hears:

Area Advantages For Industries

ADVANTAGES of the Pocono Mountains as industrial sites were outlined yesterday at a meeting of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce in the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

William E. Jamieson, site service director of general public utilities for the Metropolitan Edison Co., was the speaker.

He listed as advantages nearness to major markets with new highways making the area more attractive, availability of good industrial sites, equitable assessments and taxing, a beautiful community, good recreational facilities, most major utilities, close proximity to colleges and universities and good hotel facilities.

"If you as a group will plan your programs, look around for good industrial sites, if you have all the answers industry wants to know and if you continue to recognize industry wants to be wanted, your success will grow and you will grow with the group," Jamieson told the group.

He said community success depends on a real desire for new industry and a cooperative attitude on the part of the community, hard work, money and a long-term program.

Rules To Follow

Jamieson said that among the rules to follow are: Know your community, be realistic, plan your program, satisfy your customers or prospects, have personal integrity, cooperate with industry after it locates and zone land for industrial development.

LeRoy Mikels, president, reported that the membership drive was a success resulting in 203 units of membership secured to date and 151 new members. Of the $5,072 in memberships signed during the drive, most has been collected, he said.

Named to the public relations committee were Clyde Burke, William Nixon and J. Joseph McCluskey.

J. Albert Groner, membership drive chairman, introduced new members attending. They included Jemal Dexter, Interior Design Associates; Marguerite Greiner, hearing aids; Joseph Faruglia, Provident Mutual Insurance; Philip Hardaker, television service; Donald Robbins Jr., and Irving S. Karpe, insurance; George J. Litis, Litis Gulf Service Station, and John J. Pentz Jr., attorney.

Theodore Henning, local manager for Metropolitan Edison, introduced Richard D. Drexel, the company's eastern division manager, and Jamieson.

Blind Artists Concert Set For Aug. 2

BLIND Artists' Concerts a group of artistic musicians and who in every artistic detail is comparable to his sighted contemporary, will be heard on Tuesday, Aug. 2, in Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg.

The artists appearing in these Blind Artists' Concerts programs are of the highest rank. Their programs range from classics to the most modern compositions. The audience never thinks of them as blind minstrels appealing for charity. They are artists, scattering a bounty of music.

Prominently outstanding among these was the late Luigi Bocelli, dramatic tenor, acclaimed by enthusiastic audiences from coast to coast as the "Blind Caruso."

Headquarters for the concert group is 34 South 17th Street, Philadelphia. Tickets for the performance will be on sale at a later date.

Politics Vs. Defense

As a member of Congress for 18 of his 46 years, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash) has acquired a practical knowledge of that peculiar combination of career system and politics that is the United States government.

Though himself an adept practitioner of the political arts, the senator believes there are places in government where politics should be subordinate.

For example, Sen. Jackson makes political partisans ineligible for the "all-American team of thinkers" he proposes for the planning of cold war strategy.

Currently he is building steam behind a movement to induce the next President to appoint only nonpartisans to positions concerned with national security.

His suggestion has received the support of Defense Secretary Gates and his predecessor, Robert A. Lovett. Mr. Gates even suggests that top men be kept from one administration to the next and that conflict-of-interest barriers be lowered to attract more industrial leaders into public service.

The ideal of divorcing defense and politics long has been cherished without a fully practical method of accomplishment having been developed.

A beginning might be made by not permitting officials of the military departments to address party fund-raising dinners. In the past, the inference of a connection between contributions and contracts has been impossible to resist.

Pennsylvania Tax Bite

It probably will surprise many of us to learn that Pennsylvanians last year paid a larger share of their personal income in state taxes than residents of New York, New Jersey or Ohio.

A survey on state finances for 1959 by the U.S. Department of Commerce shows state taxes taking 3.74 percent of personal incomes in Pennsylvania, against 3.72 percent in New York, 3.4 percent in Ohio and 2.2 percent in New Jersey.

The survey was made without showing the impact of the $348 million in new taxes voted by the 1959 Legislature. Add that to the figures and Pennsylvania's tax bite is even bigger.

Of the four states, Pennsylvania is the only one where state taxes exceed local levies. The percentage of state taxes as compared to total local and state taxes is as follows:

Pennsylvania, 52.4 percent; New Jersey, 27.1 percent; New York, 38.2

percent, and Ohio, 47 percent.

Pennsylvania headed the group with the highest proportion of state employees on the combined state and local payrolls.

Percentages of the employees charged to the state to total state and local employees are as follows:

Delaware, 52.3 percent; Pennsylvania, 26.2 percent; New Jersey, 17.1 percent; New York, 17.1 percent, and Ohio, 19.4 percent.

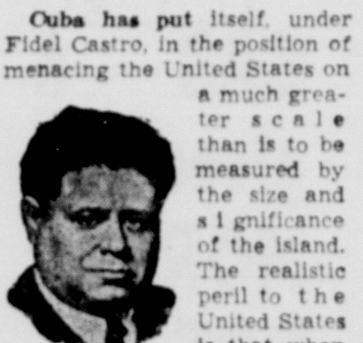

If, as a Pennsylvanian you feel a little pinched or "tax bitter" about the facts in the survey, you might find comfort in knowing there is one other eastern state that shows a more severe tax bite.

Little Delaware takes 5.4 percent of personal income. Delaware is notorious for its high state tax rate. State levies amount to 77.6 percent of all state and local taxes.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Cuban Menace

Cuba has put itself, under Fidel Castro, in the position of menacing the United States on a much greater scale than is to be measured by the size and significance of the island.

The realistic peril to the United States is that when Khrushchev visits Cuba, a mutual security pact will be agreed upon between Cuba and Soviet Russia.

That, in effect, puts Soviet Russia on our door-step and would mean that Cuba would become part of the Soviet Universal State. Under such a pact, Russia could establish submarine bases, military airfields and rocket pads in Cuba. This may influence other nations in Latin America.

Of course, under the Monroe Doctrine and the Platt Amendments that would have been impossible. The United States would have acted immediately to protect this country from such a disaster. We revoked these fundamentals of American policy, but we are not left helpless.

The Organization of American States (OAS) has the authority to move into Cuba to save that country from Communism. The Caracas 1954 Declaration, in connection with Article 6 of the Rio Pact, reads as follows:

" . . . the domination or the control of the political institutions of any American State by the International Communist movement extending to this hemisphere a political system, of an extra-continental Power would constitute a threat to the sovereignty and political independence of the American States, endangering the peace of America, and would call for consultation and appropriate action in accordance with existing treaties."

The resolution recommended that each Government should take measures to force disclosure of the identity, activities, and sources of funds of those who were spreading propaganda for international Communism or acting as its agent, and that all Governments should exchange information to strengthen the campaign against Communism.

The resolution ended with the statement that it was "designed to protect and not to impair the inalienable right of each American State freely to choose its own form of Government and economic system and to live its own social and cultural life."

In a word, the OAS can move to prevent the infiltration of any Latin American country by Communism. It is believed by some Latin American experts that if a free, internationally protected election were held in Cuba today, Castro could not be elected, particularly if the Cubans who have left that country during the Castro regime, returned to it to vote. Fidel Castro's popularity is on the wane and Khrushchev is coming to Cuba to bolster it.

There is another factor in this situation. Russia has long been annoyed that the United States and Turkey and Iran have mutual security pacts. As a matter of fact, Turkey and Iran are old allies of ours and have withstood Soviet efforts to infiltrate and to conquer them. Soviet Russia managed to take Iraq out of this group of nations, but Turkey and Iran have stood firm.

It could be — and this is speculative but quite within the range of possibility — that Soviet Russia is engaging upon this Cuban gambit with the object of bringing pressure upon the United States to relinquish its relationship with Turkey and Iran. Instead of the United States containing Soviet Russia according to the Truman Doctrine, Soviet Russia is now containing the United States.

This is a further extension of the Stalinist policy which Khrushchev has consistently opposed. From all that Khrushchev said and did prior to the Paris Summit Fliasco, it is clear that he believed in peaceful coexistence as a successful device for establishing Marxism in the Western world.

The evidence is that whereas Stalin was successful in Eastern Europe and in China, Khrushchev was making enormous and ominous progress in Western Europe and the United States.

He might have succeeded in lulling us into an easy apathy toward Soviet Russia and even Red China. But he can never change his position again, for we cannot trust him.

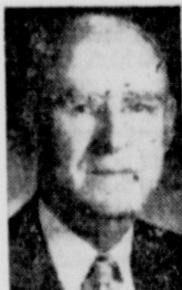

The Stalinists have regarded Khrushchev's methods as anti-Marxist-Leninist and this opposition to him has apparently prevailed. If by July 13, when the Communist Party meets in Moscow, Khrushchev cannot overcome this Stalinist opposition, it must be expected that the next serious step against the United States will be in Cuba and it will come with Khrushchev's visit to that country.

The Organization of American States has the responsibility of immediate action not to wait until it is too late and nothing can be done short of a general war. If the OAS is incapable of performing in this obvious crisis, then the United States ought to go it alone. We cannot risk our security by remaining subservient to unworkable pacts.

Try and Stop Me

—by Bennett Cerf

There's nothing routine about motion picture production in Egypt these days. During the shooting of a romantic interlude at a Cairo studio, reports vary, the hero was called upon to slap the heroine on the cheek.

"Make it more realistic," ordered the director, whereupon the hero clouted the heroine so hard that he broke her jaw and left her lying unconscious on the set.

When the director surveyed the damage done to his heroine — in private life as well as public, it would appear — he rocked the hero with a chair and fractured his skull.

The name of the film they were making, incidentally, is "Sweet and Tender."

One of the biggest aids to Pennsylvania Democrats in 1954 was their broomlike sweep of rural areas of the state — normally fairly effectively cluttered with Republican dust.

Republicans are fighting this year to win back some of these areas — and congressmen whether they like it or not are going to have much to do with it!

Correspondent Elaine Shepard's (caribean straw banana hat (penib sticking out of it) amused the happy spectators . . . She kept leaning out of the bus waving at the throng and they held their mouths to keep from getting hysterical laughing . . . Elaine is a pretty plucked the governorship for the first time in a score of years — and at the same time bowled over three GOP congressional seats into Democratic hands.

Republican strategists taking a second look-see at this "infringement" of their normally rock-ribbed Republican congressional bloc, found out some interesting things.

In the first place they discovered that Democrats had abandoned the almost ageless theory that congressmen and their business in Washington are somewhat far distant and not too appropriately tied in with state level strategy.

They found that Democratic candidates for Congress were beating the bush on the local level — as a local campaign — much as would a local candidate for membership in the State Legislature, of for that matter the village Burgess.

The Pennsylvania Story

Overall Push

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Pennsylvania Congressmen this year for the first time in many a political moon are destined to play a major role in this fall's presidential campaign.

Heretofore the Keystone State's congressional delegation — currently made up at present of 14 Republicans and 16 Democrats — has been left largely on its own by both Democrats and Republicans.

The tenor of this was changed almost unnoticeably at first back in 1954 when Democrats

Off The Record

By Robert Clark, City Editor

Getting to a shirt-sleeve parley of the Associated Press' Managing Editors Association is just the same as going on a busman's holiday. However, it does have its good points beside the usual bill of fare concerning the industry we love so much.

For instance, back in the thirties we remembered a lad making a leap over Newton Lake (near Carbondale) from one of those Eddie Rickenbacker type biplanes that gained its glory in World War I.

We marveled at this then young man's courage for going out on the wing of those wire-strunged monstrosities and parachuting toward the body of water below.

Many times this fellow missed his Newton target and ended up on the greens or fairways of Elkview Country Club, a mile away.

Well to cut a long story short, Bill Achatz, photo editor of the Pennsylvania Associated Press, was one and the same parachutist who used to thrill me and many more kids and grownups in the aweing category.

Bill told us the other night in Easton that he learned to fly after just six hours solo work. But he said the real money ($100 which was a lot in those depression days) was in leaping from the plane which went slower than most of our high class cars today.

"We used gimmicks, of course," the Philadelphia said.

"For example, a loud-speaker would be set up and say the man making the leap was the widower of six children and had no other job except parachuting," he pointed out.

"Naturally," he continued, "folks would dig in their pockets deeper and come out with a little bit more cash, thus making the leap a lucrative one."

He closed, "that's if the chute opened."

Johnson's Medical Plan

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson isn't kidding about his announced intention to put through medical care for the aged under the social security system.

To further the chances of that being done in the remaining weeks of this session, the Texas has asked the following influential members of the Finance Committee, in charge of this legislation, to work out the details of a bill he has in mind — Senators George Smathers (D., Fla.), Clinton Anderson (D., N.M.), and Robert Kerr (D., Okla.).

The measure they draft will be considered by the Finance Committee next week. By that time there should also be before it the medical care bill the House is slated to vote on this week.

The plan Johnson favors differs wholly from both the House proposal and that advocated by the Administration, but rejected by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Under Johnson's formula, the social security system would be used to provide 90 or more days' hospital or nursing home care, doctors' charges and medicine costs. This would be financed by a 1/2 of one percent increase in the social security tax for employer and employee.

Crux of the measure pending in the House is approximately $150 million in federal subsidies to the states to provide medical care for indigents over 65. Estimated cost to the states is another $200 million. Under the Administration's plan, all persons over 65 would be eligible to medical care at an approximate cost of $1.5 billion from the general Treasury funds.

Private nose counts by Johnson have convinced him that his plan will be approved by both the Finance Committee and the Senate. His polls show a sure majority for his concept.

True Labor

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Many Expectant mothers rush to the hospital upon the first sign of any pain, only to find that birth of the baby isn't due for days and maybe even weeks.

This preliminary discomfort is termed false labor pains and is generally easily distinguishable from true labor cramps.

During Final Months You may expect these false labor pains at any time during the final few months of pregnancy. Usually they are vague back pains and will come and go for a few hours.

Don't be alarmed by them. Real labor pains generally last from ten to 24 hours for the first baby. Ordinarily they will be of shorter duration for subsequent births.

Real Labor Pains You can recognize the beginning of real labor by the irregular cramp-like pains which indicate that the baby is moving along the birth canal. The pains are caused by muscular contractions which propel the baby slowly through this channel.

In most cases, the cramps will occur at long and irregular intervals for several hours. Slowly they will become more frequent and more evenly spaced.

For a woman about to have her first baby, it is usually advisable to wait until they occur at intervals of from five to eight minutes before leaving home for the hospital.

This will generally allow plenty of time to get to the hospital without rushing madly through stop lights. At the same time, you won't arrive at the hospital hours too early.

As most of you mothers-to-be undoubtedly know, the baby floats in what we call the bag of waters.

When Bag Bursts Sometimes this bag of waters bursts near the end of the pregnancy. This may be indicated by a rush of yellowing fluid or maybe by a steady flow of the fluid.

Should this happen, don't worry about the frequency of labor pains. Call your doctor and tell him you are on your way to the hospital.

Question and Answer B.T.S.: What causes hiccup in a baby?

Answer: Hiccup is a spasm of the large muscle that separates the chest and the abdomen.

In babies, hiccup usually comes on right after feeding and, in most cases, lasts only a few minutes.

I think some sort of plan like this should be evolved at this session of Congress. It is an indisputable fact that our people are living longer. There isn't a home in America that doesn't have some elderly person who needs medical care. And it is just plain good business and good insurance to provide a plan whereby they can be assured of having adequate and reasonable medical care."

Other senators are being consulted on Johnson's proposal. They particularly include Senators John Kennedy (D., Mass.) and Patrick McNamara (D., Mich.), members of the special Committee on Aging, who have been vigorously pressing for medical care legislation.

Crystal Ball — Definitely dead for this Congress are the proposal vigorously urged by President Eisenhower and Treasury Secretary Anderson to remove the 41-year-old 4 1/2 percent ceiling on long-term government securities, and the bill demanded by Sen. Paul Douglas (D., Ill.), requiring merchants to itemize interest, service and other charges on installment contracts. Both measures are being quietly interred in committees; the first in the Ways and Means Committee, and Douglas's in the Senate Banking Committee, of which he is a member.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D., Minn.) wants Congress to designate 1969 as "Sinclair Lewis Year." The late famed author of "Main Street" and other noted novels was born in Sauk Centre, Minn., 75 years ago. This is also the 40th anniversary of the publication of "Main Street," and the 30th anniversary of his receiving the Nobel Prize for Literature. Gov. Orville Freeman has proclaimed 1969 as "Sinclair Lewis Main Street Year in Minnesota," and Humphrey wants Congress to extend that nationally.

Junior Counselors For YMCA

Four junior counselors have been chosen for the YMCA Summer Fun Club Camp held at Saylor's Lake during July.

Mrs. Inger Miller, head of the day camps, has announced that Shirley Teleski, 110 N. Third St., Karen Keiper, 1855 Tanite Rd., Judy Nagler, 216 Park Ave., and Tru Hellman, 1900 N. Fifth St., all of Stroudsburg will be the junior campers.

These four girls will work under Mrs. Miller and the senior counselors, Annette Kulp and Sandra Wakefield, in helping the campers have a good time and help to fulfill the purpose that the camp is founded on.

The purpose of the camp is to try to develop a wholesome attitude and respect towards other members and leaders in the camp, as well as a feeling of achievement in individual activities.

The girls are taught the need for good health and how to stay that way by diet, dress, cleanliness and safety rules on land and in water.

The counselors of the camp are all former campers who have grown up with the camp. As the camp time starts a few counselors in training will be chosen from among the campers to assist in the day's activities.

There are two periods running July 5-15 and July 18-29. Campers leave the YMCA at 9:30 a.m. by bus and return to the YMCA at 5:15 p.m. Registrations are still being accepted and may be made through the YMCA.

The members who form the chain telephone group to notify all firemen, when there is a fire, were told to look in the new directory to check all numbers, because of the change in so many numbers.

Mrs. George Bean, chairman of the Radio operators passed out new schedules to the operators. Mrs. MacWilliams reported that the new thermos coffee urn to be sent out to fires is now on hand.

The Teen Age dance club will hold a dance during August on a date yet to be announced.

Mrs. Louis Zepel and Mrs. Joseph DeSanto will be co-chairmen of the soda stand at the bazaar.

The hostess committee to serve in July will be Mrs. Austin Kennedy, Mrs. David Kohn, Mrs. Kune, Mrs. Richard Lutz, Mrs. John Latzanich and Mrs. Richard Lee.

Mrs. Dorothy Wiley Williams made flower arrangements, explaining the work as she used many different flowers and containers and foliage. She showed that very pretty arrangements can be made with just a few flowers mixed with the proper leaves, etc. She used baby breath, coral bells, peony leaves and foliage from blackberry bushes.

She explained that cold water should never be put in vases but rather warm water. She answered questions all during the program and when finished she presented the ten members with the arrangements made with from one to a dozen blooms. Poeny's, carnations, pansies, gladiolus and several varieties of roses were used.

The next meeting will be held July 12. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Joseph Hodgson and her committee.

PEOPLE DROP BY . . .

Ever since I mentioned in the newspaper that I've been moved into an office all my own, people have been coming in to see me. Occasionally the executives come into tape recordings, look over the decor, and maybe (this IS a possibility) see that I am busy at my desk and haven't scurried home via the fire escape outside.

Among the first visitors, I believe, were Misses Nina and Eda Brentini of Canadensis. These charming ladies are regular visitors to our store and Eda is one of the artists who exhibits every January in our Wyckoff art show. The sisters have a most interesting home, which is actually an art museum, containing innumerable paintings (many by Eda) as well as sculpture collected by their family through the years. Above my desk is the painting of a clown, by Eda, which was a surprise gift to me on Mother's Day. The colors are gay . . . but actually the picture is not. That little clown's eyes speak volumes, and they give one something to think about if you study them for a while. The day of their visit was Nina's birthday, so Arthur Widmer and I sang birthday greetings to her. The Brentinis are very lovely ladies, and just as our store is pleased to see them whenever they come in, I am happy to list them among my friends.

Another visitor the other day was Ray Kohn, who holds an important editorial post with Associated Press, and is one of many former employees of the Daily Record who have moved on into larger areas and greater success. Ray is married to the former Natalie Behrens . . . the father of pretty Candy Kohn . . . a brother of Dr. David Kohn, and one of the people with the very fine faculty of remaining your friend even when his circle widens beyond your own. A former co-worker on the local newspaper, he very kindly obtained for me some names and addresses of celebrities whom I wish to interview for our Wyckoff program.

Another very charming visitor was Maribel Maschal, Miss Jantzen of 1960-61, who greeted customers in our store Thursday as the highpoint of Smile Week. Jantzen's theme, "Just wear a smile and a Jantzen" must be a natural for Maribel, for she has plenty to smile about. She's "delectable . . . delicious . . . lovely." Married rather recently, she enjoys everything about her career except being away from home for more than a day at a time. Not without reason, either—I'm told her husband is a towering 6 ft., 4 or so, broad shouldered, handsome, and a former football player. Both will attend the Hadassah Fashion Show tomorrow evening at Tamiment, when Maribel, as Miss Jantzen, will be a featured model in the Wyckoff portion of the program.

Which reminds me that another frequent visitor to my office has been Mrs. Morris Jacobson, president of Hadassah, and by telephone, Mrs. Lawrence Green, past president; Mrs. Max Fleischmann, and Mrs. Irving Karpe, all of whom are working like mad to make this the finest show ever. And, after seeing those fashions from Israel at Friday afternoon's fitting, I'm SURE it will be. Come, won't you?

Picnic Tonight For Republicans At Denbigh

All Republicans and their families and friends are invited to attend a picnic tonight, Tuesday, June 21, at 6 p.m., at Denbigh Hill Day Camp, sponsored by Pocono Mountains Council of Republican Women.

Honored guests will be the Republican men.

Those attending are to bring their favorite covered dish and individual table service. Hot rolls, butter, beverages and paper napkins will be supplied.

There will be games, contests and group singing around a fire. The picnic will be out of doors if the weather allows.

The camp is located at the corner of Cresco Route and Route 196 opposite Pocono Gardens Lodge in Paradise Valley.

The Teen Age dance club will hold a dance during August on a date yet to be announced.

Mrs. Louis Zepel and Mrs. Joseph DeSanto will be co-chairmen of the soda stand at the bazaar.

The hostess committee to serve in July will be Mrs. Austin Kennedy, Mrs. David Kohn, Mrs. Kune, Mrs. Richard Lutz, Mrs. John Latzanich and Mrs. Richard Lee.

Mrs. Dorothy Wiley Williams made flower arrangements, explaining the work as she used many different flowers and containers and foliage. She showed that very pretty arrangements can be made with just a few flowers mixed with the proper leaves, etc. She used baby breath, coral bells, peony leaves and foliage from blackberry bushes.

She explained that cold water should never be put in vases but rather warm water. She answered questions all during the program and when finished she presented the ten members with the arrangements made with from one to a dozen blooms. Poeny's, carnations, pansies, gladiolus and several varieties of roses were used.

The next meeting will be held July 12. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Joseph Hodgson and her committee.

Dauphine Offers Fun In Driving

WHEN'S THE time you had fun driving? If you haven't had that "old thrill" for quite while, now's the time for you to give the smart little Renault Dauphine from E. Barrett Auto Service, Post Office Building, Mountainhome.

You'll find that driving's fun again when you sit behind the wheel of the Dauphine. Zipping in and out of traffic, parking in the unbelievably small places, passing the "big ones" on the open highway, or cruising with comfort on that long trip—you'll love them all in the chic Dauphine.

And it doesn't cost much to operate the Dauphine either. The Dauphine gets up to 40 miles per gallon of gas. To change the oil—a mere 2 1/2 quarts does the job.

Noises In Rear

And you'll love the pl features of the Dauphine too. Engine and exhaust noises are in the rear because that's where the engine is. No heat at your feet and all exhaust gases are carried off the car. No fumes ever. A high efficiency heater is included on all models as are turn signals. One delightful little extra is the town and country horn. A flip of the switch gives a loud road clearing command. As far as room and comfort are concerned, the Dauphine is as comfortable for four passengers as one of our big cars is for six. The engine is in the rear and there is no hump in the center of the floor. Your leg room is not at all cramped.

You'll love it. Style, comfort, and economy are all yours when you own the smart Renault Dauphine. Stop in at the Barrett Auto Service, Post Office Building, Mountainhome and find out how you can have fun driving again in the Renault Dauphine.

Carpet Jubilee Time At General Flooring

IT'S CARPET COLOR Jubilee time at General Flooring Co., 914 N. 9th Street, Stroudsburg.

Color dominates the floor covering news this season and offering a wide variety of new qualities in a range of brilliant new colors, Lees carpets steal the show. Lees Colors, as seen at General Flooring Co. run the gamut of the spectrum. In two new qualities alone, "Simplicity," a quality twist type, and "Enchantress," a random sheared plush lovely, Lees presents a total of 47 carpet color choices.

Carpets this season are a feast for the eyes and a treat for the feet. They are designed to coordinate and complement the trends in other areas of home furnishings.

Carpet color for the sixties include such brilliant shades as vibrant purple, mauve, orange, pumpkin, red and turquoise. The greens which run right through to olive shades, have turned to the yellow side. Golds are deeper and richer. Some browns have more sunny yellow tones. Greys are warmer in tone. Greys, long dormant in carpet fashions, may be on the way back with these softer values.

New carpets also have fresh texture interest. Some of this is achieved through new types of surface yarns produced by Lees. Random and non-directional patterns give a versatility to decorating for those looking for timelessness in design. Shade and texture effects are achieved by twisting different shades of yarn together, or by cut and loop pile in the same carpet.

More muted combinations of shades are noted in new trend offerings in such Lees fabrics as

Head-Heart-Hand-Health State 4-H Leader Topic

UNIVERSITY PARK—Young men and women from nearly all counties in the state followed a Head-Heart-Hand-Health theme yesterday as the 31st annual 4-H Leadership School at the Pennsylvania State University where workshop sessions will continue until Thursday noon.

Dr. William M. Smith, Jr., 4-H leader at the University, said emphasis on clearer thinking, loyalty, greater service and better living — as exemplified by the four H's — aims at larger responsibilities for the young leaders when they return to their home communities.

Dr. H. R. Albrecht, director of agricultural and home economics extension, welcomed the 4-H Club members at their first assembly. Sandra Krebs, delegate from Orwigsburg, Schuylkill county, presided.

In addition to their workshops, they will have song fests, home talent shows, dances and special lectures.

Arthur M. Wellington, of the University staff, will address the school banquet Wednesday night.

Other members of the University staff are serving as faculty, along with three guests. These include Mrs. Margaret Kamradt, director of vocal music in the Waukesha, Wis., Junior High School; E. H. Regnier, recreation specialist on the Illinois extension staff, and Chauncey P. Lang, State College, emeritus 4-H leader at Penn State.

The school is being conducted by the University 4-H staff, with two assistant leaders, Neil C. Connell and Henry T. Moon, directly in charge.

Slugs, Snails Feed On Many Plants

SLUGS and snails feed on vegetables, strawberries, flowers, any many other plants. They thrive best under damp conditions, like we've been having recently. If abundant, slugs and snails can cause much damage to foliage and fruits such as tomatoes and strawberries.

During the day they hide under rocks, boards and debris or crawl back into the soil. These animals feed mainly at night but can be found feeding in heavy vegetation during cloudy or rainy days. If you suspect snail or slug damage, you should look for trails on leaves and other objects. Both animals leave these "tell-tale" tracks.

Control Measures

Here are some control measures. Where only a few slugs or snails are present, they can be trapped under boards and destroyed in early morning. If abundant, use a poison bait. There are many commercial preparations on the market which offer good control.

Dusts containing 15 percent malathion or a combination dust containing 10 percent malathion and five percent chlordane are effective if available. A 20 percent malathion liquid used at the rate of three tablespoons per gallon of water as a spray is also effective.

It is best to apply baits, dusts or spray in late afternoon or early evening. Baits or dusts should be used at the rate of one pound to 1,000 square feet. Do not allow any of the materials to get on vegetable plants. On vegetables use baits placed between the row.

Don't Seed Lawns Now

DO NOT seed new lawns late in spring advises County Agent Arthur Ifft. He says it is impossible for the desirable permanent turf grass to produce more than a shallow rooted seedling plant before the hot dry weather.

The seedling plants cannot compete with the annual weeds which thrive in the heat of the summer. Most of the seedling permanent grass plants are killed by the hot dry weather and the area must be reseeded in the late summer.

At this season of the year it would be more desirable to seed a temporary grass such as domestic ryegrass. This can be destroyed in mid-August and the lawn area prepared for seeding permanent grass early in September.

Grass seeded early in September will develop a strong plant before winter and by the following summer the grass plants will have deep roots and be mature enough to withstand the hot dry weather. If properly fertilized at seeding time and in late April the turf should be dense enough to resist annual weeds.

Urges Early Cultivation

EARLY cultivation is especially important on soils that form a surface crust. Crusts near seedling plants may injure them.

Roots of tomatoes, cabbages, and other transplanted crops are three or four more inches below the surface of the ground and can stand close surface cultivation to loosen the soil and kill the weeds. Young seedlings, such as radishes, onions, carrots, beets, and others coming through the ground, need light and not too close cultivation.

Farmers Urged To Read Label

ESPECIALLY after the current controversy over the use of agricultural chemicals, farmers must be more careful than ever.

Extension entomologists at Penn State offer this advice — if a farmer will carefully read the directions and follow them, his conscience will be clear, and more important, chances of being accused of a violation will be almost eliminated.

Troubles by insects and fungi are so numerous today that a farmer must see the up-to-date controls which insecticides and fungicides give him. He can no longer expect top yields and top quality crops without them.

Great Importance

But because the health of the public is of such great importance, he must abide by regulations put in force to protect the public's health. This can best be done by properly following label directions. And the entomologists also advise farmers to note the date of application and the date of harvest of crops on which agricultural chemicals are used. If any questions are raised, this information will prove useful, as in many cases chemicals must last be applied a certain number of days before harvest.

Some of our farmers have a tendency to follow the old adage "if a little is good, more is better." Today, this is definitely out of the question. The Penn State specialists warn that directions must be followed precisely — it just doesn't pay to be careless when using these chemicals.

A final thought: "Insecticides are as valuable as the proper use you put them to."

Chemical Control Important

CHEMICAL weed control in field corn is very important.

Annual weeds and grasses are a serious threat to top yields of good quality grain and ensilage. Weeds will reduce the corn fields by twenty to thirty percent in early stages of the corn plant.

Provides Moisture

The spraying with 2-4-D when the corn plants emerge will give good control of grass and broadleaf weeds providing moisture is present to germinate the weed seeds. Atrazine 80W and Simazin 80W will control grass and broadleaf weeds when applied at planting time. The sprayer can be attached to the planter and this will save time and labor.

The band application over the row should be 12 to 14 inches wide. These materials are most effective when applied to moist soils. For Post-Emergence Sprays. The broadleaf weeds can be controlled with 2-4-D when the corn is four to twelve inches tall.

Delay cultivating eight to ten days after spraying. Post-emergence spraying to control broadleaf weeds is a must for top yields and reasonable profits.

The organic acid may also be added to a bucket of water. The resulting solution may then be sloshed over the equipment as the rinse process takes place. Many dairymen use milk and water stone removers. These cleaners are organic acid materials and may be used in this final acid rinse technique being used more and more by dairymen.

One dairy bulk pick-up route in the state tried this technique on half of their bulk milk tank shippers. The others remained as controls. The dairy field supervisor was so impressed with the results in the use of

Select Seed Fields Now

FARMERS planning to use seed from their own grain fields are urged to check their fields for objectionable weeds, seed-borne diseases or mixtures.

A number of samples of home-grown seed picked up from drill boxes this spring have contained large amounts of quackgrass, wild mustard and/or bindweed seed. Seeding these serious weeds back on the land greatly increases the weed problem. If seed fields contain any quantity of these weeds, new seed should be purchased for planting.

Loose smut is showing up in some fields. The powdery black or brown spore masses appear where the grain should be. Later the spore blow or wash away leaving a bare zig-zag tip (rachis) on the straw. Fields showing in excess of one per cent loose smut should not be used for seed.

Advantages of Chlordane ...

1. Controls a wide range of garden insects.
2. It's effective for a long period of time.
3. Easy to apply.
4. Safe to use when applied as directed.

PSU Tests Fertilizer For Lawns

NITROGEN fertilizer for lawns and parks, available commercially in three forms, has been tested for seven years by the Agricultural Experiment Station at The Pennsylvania State University.

These nitrogen fertilizers are ureaforms, natural organics, and soluble carriers. The soluble carriers are the most common form of fertilizer, he adds.

Ureaforms gave the slowest rates of growth in Penn State experiments but grew grass the greatest length of time. Natural organics had the next longest growth period. And with organics, quality and quantity of grass were influenced largely by factors such as temperature and rainfall.

4 To 6 Weeks

Greatest total growth, within 4 to 6 weeks after application, was made with the common form of soluble carriers. After that time, the growth fell off rapidly. Growth and quality of grass were not as good with soluble carriers as with natural organics and ureaform products.

Penn State's 1960 Agronomy Guide describes recommended rates of fertilizer to use for all turfgrasses. Why don't you pick up a copy at your local county agent's office. That's the Penn State Agronomy Guide — at the county extension office.

Squash Can Add To Variety

SQUASH CAN add variety to the garden where space permits and culture of squash and pumpkin is similar.

The planting distance depends on the type of plant growth for each variety. Shallow-rooted, they should be cultivated not more than two inches deep. Deeper stirring of the soil injures the roots.

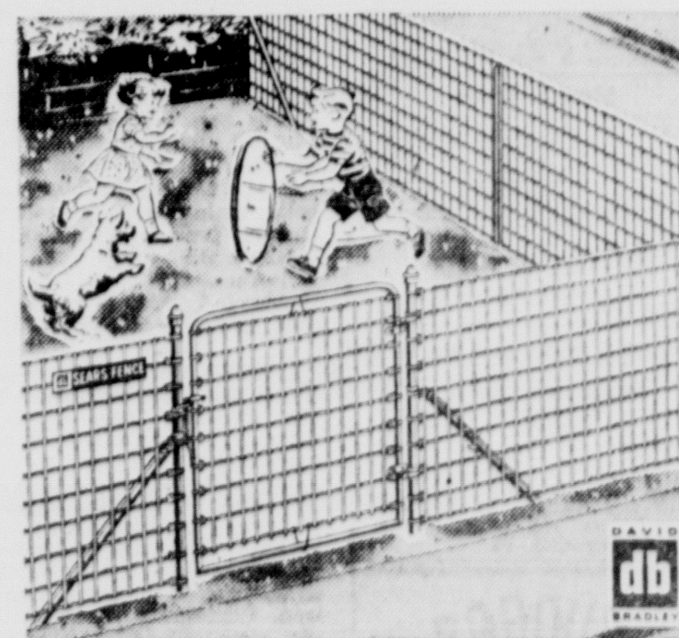

For best advantage, use summer squash when young and tender. Pick when the outer rind is soft and before the seeds begin to fill. Only the hard-shelled or winter squashes are adapted for long storage.

Holly Hock Rust Hurts

HOLLY HOCK rust started out shortly after new growth with new leaves appeared. County Agent Arthur Ifft says rainy weather has given the disease all it needs to become very destructive this year.

The fungus attacks leaves and stems. Severely infested leaves and stems may die. The rust can be seen on leaves as small yellow spots from the upper side, and as red pustules on the under sides.

The final acid rinse procedure that the rest of the dairymen were instructed to adopt this technique.

Preservatives Are Used For Silage

PRESERVATIVES, either food additives or chemicals, are essential when ensiling direct-cut hay type forages that are high in moisture.

Feed additives, such as corn and cob chop, are best applied at rates of 200 or more pounds per ton of green forage. When thus applied they not only supply carbohydrate for proper fermentation but also aid in reducing run-off by seepage. Feed

Control Checks Beetles

PROPER control measures will help check a variety of very small, dark brown beetles that attack seasoned wood in buildings.

A coat of paint or varnish to close the pores in the wood and prevent the beetles from laying eggs. But this will not destroy the eggs and grubs that may be in the wood before the application is made.

A spray containing five percent DDT, applied to infested timbers before June 1, will give fair control. A five percent pentachlorophenol solution painted or sprayed on infested wood is also effective. The odor from pentachlorophenol may be objectionable for several weeks after it is used.

Attack Only

Some of the beetles attack only the sapwood of hardwoods, while others work in pine and fir timbers. The majority of the beetles deposit their eggs in the pores of dry wood during June. The small, white larvae or grubs eat the wood and pack their burrows with fine powder-like sawdust. The fine powder often sifts from the infested timbers onto the floor or objects below.

If the infestation has continued for several years, the wood surface will usually have numerous round holes about the size of pin heads. The holes are made by the adult beetles as they emerge from the infested wood. This emergence usually takes place in early June.

Livestock Show Set For July 9

THE 12TH annual Keystone Stud Ram and Ewe Show and Sale will be held in the small arena of the Farm Show Building, Harrisburg, Saturday, July 9.

Lambs and yearlings will be offered by Hampshire, Suffolk, and Dorset breeders, while yearlings only will be consigned in the Southdown, Cheviot, Shropshire, Corriedale, and Oxford breeds. Consignments are being made by breeders from New York, Missouri, Iowa, Vermont, Connecticut, New Jersey, Virginia, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

Judge

Animals will be judged by Carl Bradford, Ohio State University, and Hobart W. Farthing, Findlay, Ohio, will be auctioneer.

Pinch Flower Tops Answer

PINCH or remove tops of young snapdragon, zinnia, and marigold plants to induce branching and more flowers for the greatest number of blooms plan to pinch at least twice.

However, if plans are to exhibit the flowers in a show or fair, pinch only once, or not at all. Remove all side shoots so the flower attains maximum size.

additives may be applied to the forage either by placing the proper amount on the wagon before filling or by spreading it over the lead before unloading at the silo.

Rate Of Eight

When a chemical preservative such as bisulfite is used, it is advised to be applied at the rate of eight pounds per ton for all direct cut forages. These materials do not absorb moisture and thus do not reduce seepage. Therefore, farmers using them should refrain from ensiling material wet with dew or rain.

Normally, forages wilted to 70 percent moisture require no preservative. For slightly wetter forages feed additive type materials can be applied at rates of 100-200 pounds per ton.

Chemical preservatives should not be used on forages containing less than about 75 percent moisture at the time of ensiling. They probably will not aid fermentation at this lower moisture level, and on dryer forages may result in a less palatable silage.

When chemicals are used on forages containing more than 75 percent moisture, either direct cut or slightly wilted, apply at the eight pound per ton rate.

Vegetable Gardening

IN answer to questions on proper vegetable planting distances it may be pointed out that they vary with the kind of plant, the size of garden, method of cultivation, and personal preference.

Plants need plenty of space for full, natural development. Where space is limited, spacing can be closer than usual. Otherwise, plants far enough apart to use the field cultivator.

Some vegetables, like cabbage, cauliflower, egg plant, and melons, require about the same space, regardless of the size of garden they are in. Others, like carrots, beets, lettuce, radishes, and turnips, will grow well in rows as close as twelve inches, where hand cultivation will be necessary.

Avoid Wounding Oak Trees Now

AVOID pruning and otherwise wounding oak trees during May and June. It is during this period when the springwood is developing, oak trees are highly susceptible to invasion by the oak wilt fungus.

Spore-bearing mycelial mats in wilt-killed trees are most abundant during April through June. Wounded oak trees may become infected through the transfer of spores from such mats by insects which are attracted to both mats and fresh wounds on oaks. If pruning must be done during this period paint wounds immediately with a tree paint.

Market Retaining Direction

By JACK LEPLER
AP Business News Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market is maintaining its pop and direction despite drifting tendencies which have prevailed all week, an analyst said yesterday. Although the Dow Jones industrial and rail averages haven't made a new intraday high since June 9, L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. feels that the improved tone so evident in last week's rally continues.

"The imaginative factor is still vigorous," he said. "This is indicated by the continuing demand for adventure stocks like Universal Match, American Photocopy, Brunswick, General Precision and Transiltron."

"At the same time the demand for more conservative stocks is illustrated by the rise in H. J. Heintz, United Shoe Machinery, American Cyanamid, Dayton Power & Light, Singer Manufacturing and Diamond National."

Hooper finds investors and traders "exceedingly choosy, even if they seem to feel better on balance."

The fall business skies are not cloudless but most of the evidence points to a healthy pickup following a midsummer lull, observes Schroeder Boulton of Goodbody & Co.

He cites lagging housing starts and a million-car inventory in the auto industry as notable weak spots.

"The factor of easy money, and all that it implies as a business-lifting force for next fall, is finding support," he said. "In a probable sharp upturn in steel output late in the third quarter, a relatively satisfactory settlement of railroad wage negotiations, a probable increase of one billion dollars or more in defense expenditures and the favorable level of employment."

As for the stock market, Boulton says that profit-taking after so sharp an advance was inevitable and a further period of consolidation may be necessary before the market furnishes a clue to its next important move.

Toll Takers Are Convicted

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP)—Two of five Pennsylvania Turnpike toll collectors accused of pocketing $1,800 in tolls yesterday were convicted by a Beaver County Criminal Court jury of fraudulent conversion.

They are John Krawchick, of R. D. 2 Wampum, and Roy Glenn Rose, of Beaver Falls. The jury failed to reach a verdict in the case of Frank J. LaCava, of Ellwood City, under suspension by the Turnpike Commission.

The court dismissed conspiracy charges against all three.

This trio and two other former toll collectors, Kenneth L. Harn, of New Brighton, and John L. Piccinini, of Racine, will be tried Monday on the same two charges growing out of a shortage at the Gateway Interchange near the Ohio border. The quietest rotated as collectors at the Beaver Valley and the Gateway Interchanges. They were arrested last March.

Demands Food

MOSCOW (AP)—An unidentified worker who, in a recent letter published in Kommosol Pravda, demanded better food and clothing and fewer Sputniks was criticized anew Thursday, Kommosol Pravda, the Communist Youth League paper, published four more letters assailing him.

The carnival scene includes Dave Blythe and Al Rodgers as merry-makers and the sensational female comedienne Gigi Martin who usually "Rolls 'em in the aisles." Come up for an evening of enjoyment. Mr. Banjo still is strumming although the rest is utterly new and different every evening. Bob Newman and his selected orchestra weaves fine music in the popular or continental fashion. READ WHY 55 MILLION AMERICANS GET THE
BEST HELP IN PAYING HOSPITAL AND DOCTOR BILLS WITH BLUE CROSS AND

Verified figures show 93 cents out of every dollar paid in for 1959 by members of America's Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans went to pay their hospital and doctor bills. No wonder you get more for your money with Blue Cross and Blue Shield!

More value for the dollar! Aside from necessary expenses, every cent paid in to these Plans goes to provide benefits to members. That's because your Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans serve solely in the community interest—your interest! For instance: board members are businessmen and civic leaders who serve without pay!

You get hospital benefits based on the care you need while in the hospital. Help is not confined to a fixed daily dollar allowance that's the same for everybody and all too often inadequate. Such realistic, sensible benefits are possible because Blue Cross Plans work directly with hospitals.

No claims to file, no waiting for payment! When you need care, just present your Blue Cross card on admission to the participating hospital. Everything is handled for you. No other form of protection so simple!

You get broad doctor bill benefits! The kind of surgical-medical-maternity care every family needs. Your Blue Shield Plan is sponsored by local doctors. Helps pay for hundreds of different types of operations and many nonsurgical services.

Low in cost! Blue Cross and Blue Shield give you more benefits . . . more value per dollar. These Plans are the pioneers in the field. While others said, "It can't be done," Blue Cross and Blue Shield did it—they put adequate health care protection within the reach of practically every family. If you are not now a member of Blue Cross and Blue Shield, or have some other form of protection, be sure to read the helpful information on all types of health expense protection contained in the "Buyer's Guide" offered below.
